Developed Nations Must Fulfil Climate Finance Commitments: India

New Delhi, TRINET NEWS, November 10:
India has urged developed nations to fulfil their financial commitments in combating climate change and provide adequate support to developing countries in accordance with Article 9.1 of the Paris Agreement.Addressing the opening session of the United NationsClimateChangeConference (COP31) in Antalya, Türkiye, Union Secretary for Environment, ForestandClimateChangeNarendra Bhushan outlined India's position on global climate action.He emphasised that international climate negotiations must be guided by equity, historical responsibilities and the respective capabilities of nations. He said the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) and the Paris Agreement provide inclusive platforms where every country can express its concerns and contribute to collective solutions.Bhushan highlighted that meaningful dialogue builds trust, consensus strengthens shared responsibility, and effective implementation transforms international commitments into tangible results.Referring to the growing risk of global temperatures exceeding 1.5 degrees Celsius, he stressed the importance of ensuring that no country is left behind in the global fight against climate change.India, he said, remains committed to contributing its fair share to international climate action while safeguarding national development priorities and public welfare.The Secretary pointed out that developing countries face significant challenges in achieving a just energy transition and strengthening their resilience against climate-related impacts. He stressed that public financial support from developed nations remains essential to address these challenges.India reaffirmed its commitment to working constructively with all participating countries at COP31 to achieve ambitious, equitable and balanced outcomes that promote sustainable development, climate justice and international cooperation.

Island Fisheries to Boost India's Blue Economy

Focus on Tuna Production, Seaweed Cultivation and Ornamental Fish Development

New Delhi, TRINET NEWS, November 10
The Central Government is taking major steps to transform Lakshadweep and the Andaman and Nicobar Islands into important hubs of India's growing blue economy. The initiative focuses on expanding tuna production, seaweed cultivation and ornamental fish farming while creating employment and income opportunities for island communities.Under the Pradhan Mantri Matsya Sampada Yojana (PMMSY), investments of ?218 crore have been earmarked for the Andaman and Nicobar Islands and ?175 crore for Lakshadweep to strengthen fisheries infrastructure and promote sustainable marine resource utilisation.The two island groups account for nearly 40 per cent of India's Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ). The government aims to sustainably harness valuable tuna resources, including yellowfin, skipjack and bigeye tuna, found in these waters.In Lakshadweep, the government has set a target to double tuna production to 50,000 tonnes within five years. Meanwhile, a dedicated tuna cluster in the Andaman and Nicobar Islands will support the modernisation of fishing vessels and expansionofcoldstorageinfrastructure.Lakshadweep is also being developed as a specialised seaweed cluster, with emphasis on cultivation, seed banks, hatcheries and skill development. Seaweed offers significant opportunities in the food, pharmaceutical and cosmetics industries.With more than 300 coral reef-associated ornamental fish species found in Lakshadweep, the government plans to promote regulated collection, breeding facilities and improved market access.The initiative also includes developing fish landing centres, ice plants, cold-chain networks, processing units and export infrastructure. These facilities are expected to reduce post-harvest losses and encourage local value-added production.The government aims to strengthen the livelihoods of fishermen, local entrepreneurs and island communities while protecting fragile marine ecosystems and ensuring the sustainable development of India's blue economy.

Food Safety Officials Conduct Massive Raids on Cloud Kitchens in Hyderabad

25 Special Teams Detect Expired Food Items, Insects and Poor Hygiene Conditions

Several Kitchens Shut Down; Show-Cause and Improvement Notices to Be Issued

HYDERABAD, TRINET NEWS, NOVEMBER 10:

The Telangana Food Safety Department launched extensive inspections of cloud kitchens across Hyderabad on Tuesday, deploying 25 special enforcement teams to examine food quality, hygiene standards and compliance with food safety regulations.The inspections, conducted by the TG Safe Food Wing in the Qure area, exposed several violations related to food storage, preparation methods and kitchen sanitation. Officials expressed concern over unhygienic conditions that could pose risks to consumers.During the inspections, authorities discovered approximately 15 boxes of food colouring agents at one cloud kitchen, while expired sago stocks were found at another establishment. Cockroaches and other insects were detected in several kitchens, highlighting serious lapses in cleanliness and food practices.Inspectors also identified unsuitable plastic chopping boards being used for cutting vegetables. Insect contamination was detected in Bombay rava (semolina), raising concerns about the quality of ingredients used in food preparation.Officials observed that some kitchen operators had failed to maintain proper storage facilities, hygienic cooking environments and prescribedsanitationstandards.Considering the seriousness of the violations, authorities ordered the closure of certain cloud kitchens. Show-cause notices will be issued to establishments facing serious regulatory violations, while improvement notices will be served on others, directing them to rectify deficiencies.Food Safety officials stated that the inspection drive was aimed at safeguarding public health and ensuring that cloud kitchens strictly follow food safety regulations.They emphasised that food business operators must maintain cleanliness, store ingredients safely and adopt hygienic preparation practices to prevent contamination.The department confirmed that inspections were continuing across Hyderabad. A comprehensive report containing the names of inspected establishments, violations identified and enforcement actions initiated will be released after the inspection drive is completed.

Supreme Court Seeks Stronger Measures to Prevent Digital Arrest ScamsWhatsApp and Other Online Platforms Asked to Explain Steps to Protect Citizens from Cyber Fraud

NEW DELHI, TRINET NEWS, NOVEMBER 11:

The Supreme Court has soughtdetailsfromWhatsApp and other digital intermediaries regarding measures being taken to prevent digital arrest scams and related cybercrimes, as concerns grow over fraudsters impersonating law enforcement officials to deceive citizens.A bench headed by Chief Justice of India Surya Kant asked online platforms to explain the preventive mechanisms they propose to introduce to curb such illegal activities. The court's intervention highlights the increasing importance of cooperation between technology companies and law enforcementagencies.Digital arrest scams typically involve criminals contacting victims through telephone or video calls, falsely claiming to represent police departments, investigative agencies or other government authorities. Victims are often threatened with arrest or legal action and pressured into transferring money.The court's directions place renewed attention on how messaging platforms can detect suspicious accounts, respond to complaints and cooperate with investigators while respecting legitimate users' rights.Cybersecurity experts have repeatedly emphasised that public awareness is an essential component of fraud prevention. Citizens should independently verify suspicious claims, avoid transferring money under threats and report attempted scams through official channels.The proceedings also underline the broader challenge of tackling organised cybercrime, which frequently involves multiple communication platforms and financial transactions.The matter remains under judicial consideration, with the intermediaries expected to provide further information about their proposed safeguards
